Istria

When green and blue become one

Its red-roofed villages, rolling hills and beautiful coastline have provided Europe with a new hotspot for camping and caravanning. The pristine pebble beaches of its stunning coastline provide the perfect setting for long sunny days, from April well into October.

Poreč

Located on the west coast of the Istrian peninsula, Poreč has long been one of the Croatia's most popular tourist destinations. Enjoy summer festivals, world-class sport facilities and landscapes bursting with historical monuments, such as Euphrasian Basilica-a UNESCO world heritage site.

Vrsar

Once a fisherman's village, this scenic treasure near Poreč now also embraces the arts as well as seafaring traditions. Situated on a hillside overlooking the sea, the natural beauty of its protected landscape has inspired many artists to make it their home and now Vrsar houses a vibrant community of painters and sculptors.

Funtana

Famed for its welcoming tavernas and restaurants, the picturesque village of Funtana lies just 7 kilometres from the vibrant city of Poreč and only 3 kilometres from Vrsar -a town famed for its art and artists. In addition to its cuisine, discover idyllic surroundings of floral meadows, local vineyards and green clusters of olive, oak and pine.

Pula

Situated in one of the most beautiful bays in the Adriatic, Pula is a heartland of history, parks and vibrant summer festivals. Amongst the many architectural monuments, the ancient Roman arena is perhaps the most awe-inspiring. The 6th largest coliseum in the world is a reason enough to make Pula a must-visit on any Adriatic camping venture.

Labin

Perched atop a limestone hill overlooking Rabac, this ancient treasure of cultural and architectural monuments allows you to step back in time amidst the narrow streets and stone walls of the old quarter. Take a moment to absorb the sights and sounds from one of the street cafes and experience the feel of a town untouched by time. Then refresh yourself in the pristine waters of Kvarner Bay.

Krk Island

The glorious Golden Island

The largest of all Croatia's 1,100 islands, Krk has been called 'The Golden Island' due to its wealth of diverse landscapes and rich cultural heritage. Covered in dense Mediterranean greenery, the island sits in the sapphire-blue Bay of Kvarner, linked to the mainland by a 1.3-kilometre-long bridge, allowing easy access for caravans and motorhomes.

The island's capital, a walled treasure trove of architectural monuments and historical artefacts, is worthy of a full-day's exploration. Street theatre, classical concerts and popular music reverberate daily through the streets and market squares adding an audio and visual extravaganza to the café culture and evening cocktail crowd.

The surrounding coastline is renowned for crystal-clear waters and immaculate beaches. But, step away from its shores and you'll find many other recreational opportunities including cycling, horse riding and scenic walking trails.

The island is also famed for its olive oil and wine, just the tip of the gastronomic iceberg. Krk lamb, locally-caught seafood, cheese and fresh pasta are just a few of the delicacies on offer in waterfront restaurants and rustic taverns.

Rab Island

The famous Happy Island

The island of Rab with exceptional natural beauties, rich Mediterranean vegetation, and a clear blue sea with unique, in places emerald colour is located in the central area of the Kvarner Bay. With 2500 hours of sunshine per year, it is one of the sunniest island. The ancient Romans called the island Felix Arba which means Happy Island. With its rich history and endless natural diversity from the finest sand over the stone karst to always green holm oak, Rab fully deserves this prestigious title.

The island of Rab has a monumental old city with numerous cultural-historical monuments which gives you a wonderful opportunity to explore the history and tradition.

View of the four bell tower and a medieval town that is more than two thousand years old, are a symbol of eternal beauty and special atmosphere of the old town of Rab. A stroll through the narrow stone streets of the city offers a view of the many cultural and historical sights: churches, palaces of Rab's royalty, arranged squares, walkways, flower beds and parks, the atmosphere of the sea promenades as well as a lot of open terraces for refreshment and relaxation.

With a pleasant climate during the entire year it is the right choice for camping in beautiful nature, between Mediterranean trees, enjoying a lot of sun and warmth and bathing in the warm sea on spacious sandy beaches.

Numerous walkways and interesting walking, hiking and biking trails lead to attractive locations on the island and offer opportunity for recreation and enjoyment in the natural beauties and landscape.

For fans of swimming and sunbathing the island of Rab offers diverse and beautiful natural beaches, located on the indented coastline in a series of bays, on peninsulas and small islands.

The most famous is the sandy beach in Lopar, known as "Rajska plaža" (Paradise beach).

Dubrovnik

Experience the magic

Absolutely essential during any trip to Croatia is a visit to the magical city of Dubrovnik. Known as the 'Pearl of the Adriatic' this priceless jewel of the legendary Dalmatian Coast has quickly become one of Europe's most fashionable hotspots to see and be seen.

UNESCO named Dubrovnik's Old Town a world heritage site. Steeped in history and virtually unchanged since the 13th Century, towering limestone walls embrace a heart of terracotta roof tiles and narrow streets paved in marble.

Each individual plaza, palace and church tells a story from its rich and often turbulent past. Taverns, shops and monuments line the main pedestrian promenade, Stradun, a street studded with archaeological legacies of the city's eventful past.

Don't miss the famous Onofrio Fountain, all but destroyed by the 1667 earthquake, and the Franciscan Monastery, both highlights of any walking tour of this unique city. Take time to stroll around the marina then take a seat and watch the world go by at one of the many spectacular restaurants and taverns.

In summer, this 'Pearl of the Adriatic' sparkles even brighter when a festival of actors, singers and performing artists flood the city with spectacular street theatre and musical performances.

With the construction of the A1 motorway, the road journey for caravans and motorhomes between Zagreb and Dubrovnik has never been easier.

For guests arriving by plane, mobile homes in Camping Solitudo allow a unique chance to explore Dubrovnik while staying close to nature.
